competent authority

Education completed outside the EU/EEA countries:

The main principle is that educational qualifications awarded outside the EU/EEA countries will be compared directly to the equivalent education provided in Finland. The comparison of qualifications will be carried out by a university or other institute of education that will issue a statement indicating whether the existing qualifications can, in principle, be upgraded to conform to Finnish standards and, if so, what additional studies should be completed by the applicant to achieve this.

Inquiries concerning the equivalence of qualifications can be made through Valvira. Alternatively, the applicant can directly contact the Finnish university or institute of education providing the appropriate training.

If you wish to have the equivalence of your qualifications determined by Valvira, please submit the following documents to Valvira. Valvira will forward the documents to a university or institute of education to request a statement on the application. The party issuing the statement may require a processing fee up to a maximum of € 336. A separate application and set of documents are required for each individual profession for which determination of equivalence is requested.

Documents required:

- Application form. The application must clearly indicate the profession to which it relates.
- Extract from the population register or officially certified copy of passport
- Officially certified copy of the diploma
- Translations of the diplomas by a certified translator into Finnish, Swedish or English
- Officially certified copies of documents indicating the studies (subjects) included in the degree including the number of lessons in the original language accompanied by official translations by a certified translator into Finnish, Swedish or English
- Officially certified copies of certificates indicating work history in the profession involved
- National Certificate of Language Proficiency in Finnish or Swedish or the Civil Service

Language Proficiency Certificate if the applicant is not an EU/EEA citizen

- As an applicant, you may also contact the Finnish university or institute of education providing the training for the purpose of determining the equivalence of qualifications. It is advisable to first contact the student advisor of the university or institute to find out about the application procedure and other practical arrangements. The institutes of education may test your knowledge of Finnish or Swedish, hold other examinations or impose other requirements.

Application document requirements and charges:

The appendices to the application must be officially certified copies of the original documents. Document certification is carried out by notary public and the police. In addition, Finnish, Swedish or English translations of all documents produced by an authorised translator must be provided.

The application documents will remain with Valvira. No copies of the application documents will be made at Valvira.

The decision by Valvira is issued in Finnish or Swedish. The decision is subject to a charge (200-400 €) which is payable even if the application is denied.

The decision is sent COD (cash on delivery) within Finland. Applicants in other countries are sent an invoice with the number of the bank account into which the payment is to be remitted. If the invoice is paid in a currency other than the euro, the applicant will also be liable for currency exchange, bank transfer and other costs. The applicant is requested to advise Valvira of the payment, after which the decision on the right to practise will be sent to the applicant.

Language skills

All medical or health care professionals working in Finland must be able to speak either Finnish or Swedish. Finland is officially a bilingual country and some 5% of the population speaks Swedish as their first language.

Citizens of other EU/EEA countries:

Citizens of EU/EEA member states are not required to provide official proof of their Finnish or Swedish skills directly to Valvira. However, your future employer has a legal duty to make sure you have enough language skills so you can work safely. To verify this your employer is allowed to ask for a Language Proficiency Certificate before hiring.

Citizens of non-EU/EEA countries: Citizens of non-EU/EEA member states need to present Valvira with an official language certificate that verifies they have satisfactory skills in Finnish or Swedish. The Finnish National Board of Education grants two kinds of National certificates of Language Proficiency and both of them are accepted by Valvira. The tests for the Certificates are quite demanding and Valvira requires that you pass with a Satisfactory grade, at least.
